The National Day of Mourning remembers those who have been killed or injured at work. The Northern Territories Federation of Labour together with the Workers’ Safety and Compensation Commission of the NWT and Nunavut call on all workers to wear black on Wednesday, April 28th to recognize the National Day of Mourning.

Ceremonies in both Yellowknife and Iqaluit, hosted by the Northern Territories Federation of Labour, will be held at noon on Wednesday, April 28th in the respective Legislative Assemblies.

Did you know...
Since 1984, more than 25,000 Canadians have been killed on the job?

In 2009, the NWT and Nunavut reported three workplace fatalities.
